

Matt Aimonetti

- Software Architect at LivingSocial
- Author at O'Reilly
- Open-source evangelist
- Web engineer

HomeArticlesPresentationsAbout

Matt Aimonetti is a web engineer, technical writer and active open-source contributor. Based in San Diego California, he is currently working as a software architect for LivingSocial. Prior to joining LivingSocial, Matt worked on video game development at Sony PlayStation.

Recent

Getting started with mruby	Apr 25th, 2012
mruby and MobiRuby	Apr 20th, 2012
Building and implementing a Single Sign-On solution	Apr 4th, 2012
Learning from Rails’ failures	Feb 29th, 2012
Quick dive into Ruby ORM object initialization	Feb 23rd, 2012
LA RubyConf 2012 - Ruby: time to move on	Feb 4th, 2012
Books to read in 2012 - recommended to me by Twitter	Dec 30th, 2011
Developing a Curriculum	Dec 21st, 2011
RubyConf Argentina 2011 - Inside Ruby	Nov 8th, 2011
Data safety and GIL removal	Oct 18th, 2011

Popular

mruby and MobiRuby	Apr 20th, 2012
Building and implementing a Single Sign-On solution	Apr 4th, 2012
Learning from Rails’ failures	Feb 29th, 2012
Quick dive into Ruby ORM object initialization	Feb 23rd, 2012
Data safety and GIL removal	Oct 18th, 2011
About concurrency and the GIL	Oct 3rd, 2011
First step in scaling a web site: HTTP caching	Jul 11th, 2011
Ruby concurrency explained	Feb 22nd, 2011

View all articles

Presentations

LA RubyConf 2012 - Ruby: time to move on	Slides	Feb 4th, 2012
RubyConf Argentina 2011 - Inside Ruby	Slides	Nov 8th, 2011
RubyConf 2011 - Complex Ruby concepts simplified	Slides	Oct 1st, 2011
RubyConf 2010 - MacRuby: Why and How	Slides	Nov 12th, 2010
ConFoo.ca - Apple’s Ruby: MacRuby	Slides	Apr 11th, 2010
ConFoo.ca - Rails for non Ruby developers	Slides	Apr 11th, 2010
RubyConf 2009 - 2D games for OS X	Slides	Nov 21st, 2009
RailsSummit - The future of Ruby and Rails	Slides	Oct 23rd, 2009
RailsConf 2009 - Rails 3: Stepping off of the golden path	Slides	May 8th, 2009